FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HEALTHWYSE EXECUTIVE HONORED AS GUEST SPEAKER AT MEDICAL RECORDS INSTITUTE SEMINAR

--Andrew Braunstein, co-founder and chief technology officer of HealthWyse, LLC, will speak about the mobilization of home healthcare services--

Wilmington, Mass. (28 January 2009) – Andrew Braunstein, co-founder and chief technology officer of HealthWyse, LLC, will be honored as a guest speaker at Medical Records Institute’s Wireless Health Opportunity Forum on Thursday, February 5, 2009 in Palm Springs, CA. The forum is part of a series of seminars focusing on the Electronic Medical Record and Patient Medical Record.

Braunstein will speak about the mobilization of home healthcare services in today’s home health, hospice and private duty industries. HealthWyse has been on the vanguard of mobile computing for the home health and hospice industries for over ten years. With Smart Phones, PDAs, laptops and tablets, HealthWyse offers field clinicians the widest selection of Point of Care devices available to the Home Care and Hospice market.

“As someone who has pioneered the development of clinical and financial home health, hospice and private duty software built around an electronic medical record, I am excited to be recognized at such a prestigious industry event,” says Braunstein. I look forward to sharing the experience of HealthWyse in enabling the mobile field clinician with the audience”. Braunstein has been a professional in the software industry since 1985 with a focus on the field of clinician information systems.
